LONDON, February 27.

THE Empress of Russia is the only sovreign in Europe, who has fortitude enough to banish the topries of France from her Court, and the particularly piqûre herself upon appearing in the habit of her people.

To the indelible disgrace of the British service, a military correspondent assures us, that there are now several gentlemen in the army, no higher than Lieutenants, who have fought their country's battles above thirty years, though so many boys are now parading at the head of regiments.

Feb 19. By the death of her late Royal Highness the Princess Dowager of Wales, the King gains an accession to his civil list of 60,000l. a year; 50,000l. having been settled upon her as her dowry, and 10,000l. added to it for the maintenance of the younger children: nor do we hear, that this 10,000l. was ever withdrawn after her children were settled in the world. The Minister, therefore, has now 60,000l. a year more than he had formerly, to gratify his needy and numerous dependents.

Feb. 22. There is certain information received that the K. of Prussia is the main spring in a Northern Revolution. He has secured Sweden, he presides Russia, he rules the Councils of Holland; he commands in Denmark; the whole North is at his devotion.

We hear a paper has been found in the late Prince Dowager of Wales's bureau, directing the debts of the late Prince of Wales; her husband, to be paid. If her money is insufficient, her plate, jewels, and pictures are to be sold. The creditors, we are informed, are to apply to Samuel Martin, Esq; her Royal Highness's Treasurer.

On Sunday the 2d instant the following accident happened at a small village called Asterton, near Bishop's Castle, occasioned by a great fall of snow which came from a hill called Longmire: Seven human bodies were found dead; two men were found dead in bed, one woman with part of her clothes on and her stays in her hand, and three men were saved; but one man, aged sixty, lies dangerously ill: Upwards of twenty cattle and a number of poultry were destroyed, as was also a great quantity of grain, hay, &c. three houses were thrown down, and several large trees torn up by the roots. More than two hundred men have been digging in the snow several days past, to find the dead bodies.

Feb. 29. Instructions from the Freeholders and freemen of the city of Bristol, in Guildhall assembled, to the Rt. Hon. Lord Visc. Clare, and Matthew Brickdale, Esq; Representatives in Parliament for the same city Feb. 29.

Gentlemen.

" Interested as we are in every measure which tends to the security of our liberties, we are happy in expressing our approbation of the motion which is intended to be made in the house of commons on the 25th of this month, for shortening the duration of Parliament.

" Were we called to justify our sentiments on this very important occasion, we need only point to the universal corruption of the age—one fatal consequence of the encroachments upon our liberties by septennial Parliaments. Upon the fullest conviction, therefore, of the necessity of shortening their duration, we now exercise the indisputable right we enjoy in common with every other constituent of the British Parliament, and instruct you, our representatives, to give your utmost countenance and support to this motion, and to every other legal measure which may be most conducive to its success.

Signed by order, and on behalf of the general meeting by S. PEACON, chairman."

Lord CLARE'S ANSWER.

Sir, Great George Street, Feb. 24, 1772. I received your letter of the 20th instant on Saturday night last, accompanied by instructions to forward a bill for shortening the duration of parliaments. I have, in many instances, opposed that measure in the House of Commons; and should now think myself unfortunate indeed, should my private opinion stand in opposition to a general concurrence of my constituents—but I am confident it never will; and you must permit me to believe, that the concurrence you mention is very far from being the general sense of Bristol: I am warranted in this opinion by the silence of all my correspondents there, upon what passed on the 20th instant:

The King of Prussia, and Prince of Brunswick, it is rumoured, have been deeply engaged about something of consequence for some time past; and as a woman is looked upon there, as well as here, to be an improper person to be entrusted with secrets, when this consequential something was working to a head, it was thought necessary to send a certain Prince to England, to spend a few weeks with her friends.

March 3. On Friday Governor Johnson offered to the House a petition from an Armenian merchant, named Cojamaul, complaining of the unparalleled cruelty he had suffered from the nominal Nabobs, and other servants of the East India company in Bengal, without ever being able to know of what crime he was accused, and begging some regulations of government for his future security, as well as the rest of the miserable inhabitants, who were equally exposed to the same oppressions. The subject was opened with great perspicuity, modesty and force, stating the tyranny that existed, and the necessity of some relief. The House was uncommonly full, and listened with respectful attention; though most of the Nabobs and Directors who are in Parliament were present, yet they chose to leave impressions, which were made by Governor J——n's speech and the petition, uncontested; the petition was therefore brought up without opposition.

March 25. The report of an additional duty of one shilling a pound upon tea, must certainly create the most alarming apprehensions in every individual. Surely, at this time especially, government cannot entertain such an idea, if they have a thought about the welfare of the subject, any ways consistent with the form of the English constitution. Thousands are almost starving, unable to purchase a bit of meat; and to add to their misery they are given to understand that every necessary of life they are at present capable of purchasing will be put out of their reach: but this is not all; such an imprudent act would certainly give the greatest encouragement to smugglers; and what may follow, that 'tis dreadful to think of.

the business which the last messenger was charged with to Copenhagen, we are told, was of such a nature as to be of the utmost importance to this kingdom. The opinions of our greatest men were called for and taken, before this express was sent away: it is therefore expected that a few days will unravel this mysterious affair, which the world has been waiting for with so much impatience.

From the recent example of a certain Monarchs Potestate, all arbitrary Princes should learn to be moderate in the exercise of that power which was originally either derived from, or freely given up, by the people, for the beneficial purposes of supporting Subordination towards the welfare of society: power, like a river which overflows its banks, should be restrained either by the strength of additional bounds, or lowered by convenient and proper outlets. 'Tis in vain to say a King is at liberty to trample on the rights, or riot on the miseries of mankind with impunity, or that he is entirely secure in the number of his favourites, or armies, from the reach of a single injured individual. We have many instances of pernicious ministers who have been easily separated, and delivered to the hand of Justice, as well as of vast armies who have vanished or deserted to a man, either on some trifling disgust, or with an advantageous view in the change of masters. There is nothing so immediately concerns a King, as the keeping or regaining the love of his subjects; and this is not to be done by recommending an unnatural, tyrannical marriage &c. absurd in all its parts, as well as a palpable affront to the whole kingdom; but by patronizing his people from the oppressions of the great, by recommending a speedy execution of the laws against fortifiers, monopolizers and regrators, and in short by enforcing such methods as shall most effectually reduce the high prices of the necessities of life, to the necessities of starving society.

March 26. Yesterday morning orders were sent down to Portsmouth for the Carysfort Frigate to be ready to sail with all possible speed with dispatches for Admiral Rodney at Jamaica.

The article concerning the Embarkation of the 10,000 French is strictly true, and that repeated conferences have been held with the French Ambassador within these few days:

A Correspondent observes, that the Pawnbrokers, and the custom of giving credit, ruin this metropolis. Credit induces persons to engage in business, who have no fortunes, and the Pawnbrokers Usurers &c. suck the vitals of the poorer sort.

Extract of a Letter received from Burgan in the North of Ireland, dated March 16.

" We are kept here in the utmost confusion, occasioned by an insurrection in the lower kind of people, who have assembled together to the amount of 8000 and upwards. They form themselves in two bodies, one they call Hearts of Oak, and the other the Hearts of Steel. The half of them are old soldiers, and have learned the rest the regular Exercise. Mr. Johnson, Justice of the Peace in Gilford, had four of them apprehended, which the rest hearing, immediately went to the gaol where the prisoners had been carried, in order to rescue them. Upon their arrival at the prison they were informed that Mr. Johnson had them moved to another place; upon which they immediately agreed to shoot Mr. Johnson, and marched to Guildford with that intent. Mr. Johnson being apprised of their design, prepared to receive them. On their arrival they attacked his house, when several of them were killed from shots out of the windows; but the people in the infide were soon over-powered, and Mr. Johnson made his escape thro' a back window, and swimming across the band river, a poor man helping him out on the other side was shot dead. In the attack Mr. Murrell, a Presbyterian clergyman, who came to dine with Mr. Johnson, was killed, as were several of Mr. Johnson's servants. The party of Highlanders quartered in Belfast had an engagement with them, but upon their Captain being dangerously wounded, and several of the men killed they thought proper to retreat. There are three regiments of foot and one of horse arrived from Dublin. When they got as far as Newry two regiments of the foot and the regiment of horse stopped there, in order to consider the proper method to quell the rioters; but the Captains of the other regiments of foot being obstinate, marched on with their men, but were soon obliged to retreat back. It is feared there will be bloody work amongst them, the mob being determined to stand against the regulars. Indeed the poor are much to be pitied, many families being obliged to sleep in the fields, and other such places, owing to the great rise in provisions and rent of lands, which they and their fore-fathers had improved."

Gloucester, March 23. On Monday last Wm. Morgan and Elizabeth Twigg were executed here pursuant to their sentence. Morgan before his trial, had been very dissolute and drunken; but at the approach of death he expressed great horrors of eternity, and prayed with seeming fervency. Elizabeth Twigg declared to the last that she was innocent of the fact for which she suffered; but it is to be feared she left this world with a falsehood, as she one time said it was a sailor, another time a soldier, that took the child from her. She acknowledged that her life had been such a scene of abandoned prostitution and wickedness, that her fate was not unmerited. Morgan's body was taken to Hampton to be anatomised; and it is incredible the money the fellow who took it up received for flinging it a penny a-piece to the people of the bottoms.

B R I D G E T O W N (Barbados) Feb. 13.

On Saturday the 8th instant, arrived here the brig Charming Peggy, Henry Clark, commander, bound from Dublin to Grenada, who informs, that on Monday the 20th of December, in or about the lat. 50° 30' N. and lon. 7° 2' W. they fell in with a brig, with appeared to be a wreck, and in a sinking condition. That Richard Oliver his chief Mate, with some of his men, went on board the said brig, and there found some books and papers, among which was a log book, that proved her to be the brig Sam. Robert Cawson Commander, who sailed from this port the 17th of October last, bound to Liverpool. The last remark in the said log book is on the 20th of November, where mention is made of the wind having shifted from N. W. to S. W. that their ran a cross ugly sea, and that they made a fall to the southward which it is imagined had taken the crew on board, as most of the chests were found open, and the contents taken out.

B O S T O N May 7.

Bridgewater, May 1. Last Tuesday an oak tree of 18 inches diameter, standing a few rods from the house of Capt. Joseph Gannett, was struck with lightning; which, from the effects, is supposed to have entered the uppermost part of the trunk, about 15 feet from the ground, and striking off the top of the tree, which consisted of three branches, pierced downward into the root, divided the body into numberless pieces, and scattered them all around, to the distance of 14 rods, where the branches fell, with all their tops inclining to the root. At the time it was struck, Capt. Gannet was walking at about 20 feet distance from it, and was considerably affected by the lightning, and much wounded in his arm and leg by iron pieces of the tree. His son standing just without the door of the house, was struck to the ground, and rendered senseless; by bleeding he revived, but remains weak and languid.

To inform the public, that

ISAAC HERON,

POET'S CORNER.

To a LADY who wish'd not to hear the Tolling BELL.

AND why not hear the sound of yonder bell? Ah! why from serious thought for ever fly I It tells a sober, awful, solemn truth, A warning for man to mortify.

Think not a round of folly's mad career Can always shield thee from reflection's pow'r; The young, the fond, the gay, the rich must fear, Too long regardless of an awful hour;

Think not that beauteous form that now you wear, That glow of crimson, those inspiring eyes Must linger ever here—they all declare— They speak aloud their bidden to the skies:

Do not the hour, the day, the month, the year, All in their course expire—but all renew?

All Nature shews, alack! a prospect clear, All Nature shews there's happiness in view.

Long toil in storms do mariners repine, When the glad pilot distant land discloses! Ah! see them eager trace the solid line, See their hopes kindle as the objects rise!

And still my fair, with brightest hopes in store, Not once look up beyond this barren clod; Shall she alone her destiny deplore, Her anchor Heaven, and her pilot God?

The Game of MOTTOES, or English Jokes,

An imitation of, but far superior to, the French mottoes, or Jokes sold at a very high price in London. These JOKES were invented abroad as an agreeable amusemant after dinner and supper, by enlivening and entertaining company, as a trifling expense. Ladies choose for gentleness, and gentlemen for ladies; and when broke, contain a motto or like, which generally is productive of the greatest mirth and humor. In short, every one may find in this game, under the pleasing covering of artificial fruit, a flower, or a bird, some moral precept, and witty and agreeable saying, tending to convey instruction by means of pleasure and delight.

For the Complexion, and Disorders of the Skin :

THE TRUE EAU DE FLEURS DE VENICE, or the

VENETIAN BEAUTY WATER. This curious water, extracted from the most fragrant flowers, is much superior to any beauty-water ever yet discovered, giving to the skin the greatest whiteness and softness imaginable. It takes away pimpls, freckles and spots of every kind, with all disagreeable redness, tan, and sun-burns. It destroys those minute worms [maggots] which lodge under and deform the skin. It preserves it from wrinkles to an advanced age, and gives to the whole complexion, in a very short time, that healthful and blooming appearance which it ought to have when free from disorders. It is also excellent for the eyes, strengthening and preserving the sight.

THE AROMATICK TOOTH-WATER :

INVENTED by Capproni, dentist to his maj. Christian

Majesty, which not only cleanses and whitens the teeth, but preserves the gums, nourishes and makes them grow. It eradicates the most inveterate scurvy, renders those teeth that are loose and ready to fall out, firm and fixed; preserves such as are sound, and prevents their spoiling. This Aromatick water has besides, the virtue of curing all disagreeable smells from the breath, which are owing to the scurvy in the gums and rotten teeth. Capproni's Elixirs assuages and cures the most violent tooth-ach in a few minutes. N. B. Capproni's invented brush for using the Aromatick tooth water may likewise be had.

From Kochelle :

DECLONNETTE, inventor of the famous salt of Kochelle, has an intolligible remedy against all rheuma, coughs, constipations, hoarseness, &c. They prevent the Phthisick, asthma, &c. They cure the irritations of the acrid humours that excite the cough. By their balsamic and nutritive virtues they fortify the tender vessels of the stomach, help digestion, and promote chaliification; they melt in water like sugar, are of a most agreeable taste, and fail not to correct the breath and the impure exhalations of the stomach.

CORN-PLASTERS :

INVENTED by the famous Dr. Cambron. This famous plaster, which was discovered by Dr. Cameron when in France, is offered to the publick from a perturbation that those who shall make use of it will experience its effects to be infallible. It has a very agreeable smell, cures and eradicates all kinds of corns.

COPENHAGEN, February 3.

WE have a great quantity of rice here. The Carolina Rice sells for ten Paras a bushel more than the finest Egyptian or Italian Rice, notwithstanding its long passage.

Confidenciole, Jan. 17. It is reported here that Ali Bey's Troops have taken Jerusalem, and that the Robbers who infest Asia Minor and Syria, have carried off the magnificent Present which is Annually sent from hence to Mecca.

Thorn, Feb. 8. We learn from Dantzick, that the Prussian troops continue not only to demand larger contributions than heretofore; but that they likewise occupy all the avenues to that city, by which they prevent corn being brought thither; and all the neighbouring inhabitants are forbid to carry corn to Dantzick, on pain of having it confiscated. It is to be feared, that the corn sent from Poland this year will not be very considerable, for it is allowed, that in the territory of Marienbourg, the sending corn to Dantzick is prohibited.

Danzick, Feb. 20. This day a placard was fixed up in different parts of the town, prohibiting the exportation of several kinds of provisions, on account of their high price and great scarcity. This is the first instance of a prohibition of this nature becoming necessary in any part of Flanders. Hitherto the market of this place, on account of the shipping and great concourse of strangers, has ever been considered by the country people as the greatest resource they had to dispose of their provisions, which they are now obliged to withhold, from a real scarcity of the necessaries of life.

Petersburgh, Feb. 22. Admiral Knowles, set out yesterday from hence, with the Land and Sea Officers who are appointed to execute an Enterprise which is to take Place in the Black Sea at the Opening of next Campaign. The Empress has given this Admiral 600 Roubles for his travelling Expences, and has appointed his Daughter to be one of her Maids of Honour. It is assured, that all the Officers, before they go to the Place of their Destination, are to pass through Jassy, to consult with Count Romanzow, that they, in Concert with the General, take the surest methods to succeed in their Undertaking.

Warsaw, Feb. 29. Capt. Wrangel, who is just arrived here from the Russian army, hath brought the interesting news that the Peace between Russia and the Porte is just agreed on, and signed in the army of Field Marshal Count de Romanzow, by that Russian General and the Minister Plenipotentiary, from the Grand Signior, both duly authorized for that purpose by their respective Courts; after which the Ottoman Minister Plenipotentiary dispatched Couriers to all the Courts in friendship with the Porte, to inform them of it.

Warsaw, March 7. The Confederates have carried off Prince Gaspard Lubomirsky, who was going to Rzow to marry the young Prince of Rzow. This news was brought by an Express from Lemberg, and occasions great Concern for the Fate of that Prince.

Ratisbon, March 9. The Court of Denmark has sent a Memorial to its Ministers here, to inform the Diet, that the Event of the 17th of January will make no Alteration with Respect to their Allies.

Paris, March 9. A report prevails here, that peace is concluded between the Porte and the Court of Petersburgh, by means of some sacrifices which the Grand Signior had made to the Empress of Russia.

Copenhagen, March 14. It is said that all the Persons at present in the Service of the Queen Carolina Matilda will be soon replaced by others.

St. James's, March 21. The King has granted unto James Maeperson, Esq; the offices of Secretary and Clerk of the Council of his Majesty's province of West Florida in North America, and Register of all Grants, Patents, and Records in the said province.

LONDON, February 7. We hear Lord Grosvenor has promised, in case a divorce takes place between him and his Lady, to make her entirely independent in her circumstances, and also to entitle her to receive three thousand guineas in six months after the day she may be espoused to a second husband.

Feb. 9. Proceedings at law were stopped by agreement between Lord and Lady Grosvenor. His Lordship has settled 1200l. a year upon her Ladyship, and made her a present of 1000l. to defray her law expences.

Lord and Lady Grosvenor had each an arbitrator to terminate this remarkable process. Lord Camden kindly undertook to be the husband's; Lord Apsley condescended, at the request of the Lady's family, to be the wife's. These illusive fages of the law knew that a retrospect could never produce an accommodation; they looked therefore entirely forward, and in a little time agreed on the above conditions.

Lady G.'s alimony, during the pendency of the suit in doctors Commons, was 2000l. a year; but as the event of the suit was uncertain, and, if ended in a divorce, would leave her without a shilling, her friends judged a permanent 1200l. a year a very prudent ground for accommodating matters, and therefore complied with the offer.

Feb. 12. The Divorce Bill, which was to have been read to-morrow in the House of Peers, is deferred till this day so'nigh.

Evidence was offered to be given yesterday, at the bar of the House of Lords, of criminal conversation, between Victorio Amadeo Altieri, otherwise called Count Victorio Amadeo Altieri, and Lady Viscountess Ligonier, on the 5th of May 1711, at Lord Ligonier's house at Cobham; but her Ladyship's counsel, in her name, declining to contest the charge, there were no witnesses examined to that point. There were other facts however proved, subsequent to that of the 5th of May: namely, that the 21st of the said month, she was met at Shooter's Hill, by the Count, who accompanied her to Dartford, where they staid together till the 24th, and that her Ladyship, was seen in bed with him on the last mentioned day, being on a Monday morning by her own maid. The servant girl of the house where they lodged depos'd, that being desired by the coachman to call up the Count on the Sunday morning, between three and four o'clock, he was not to be found; that the pillows that were laid in his bed, were found in her Ladyship's, and that the Count dressed in her Ladyship's room every morning during their stay there.

Feb. 17. Mr. S. made a motion in the House of C. to bring in a bill of Nullum Tempus respellex respecting the clergy—The object of this bill was to secure the possession of the subject against the dormant claims of the church. He instanced, in support of the bill, a member whose family was 120,000l. the worse by the claim of a Bishop upon his lands after quiet possession of more than 100 years.

Feb. 22. Some workmen who were employed in the ruins of the Abbey at St. Edmundsbury, found a leaden coffin, made after the ancient custom, exactly the shape of the body. This had been enclosed in an oak case, which, by length of time was decayed, but the lead remained quite perfect. Upon close examination, it was found to be the body of Thomas Beaufort, Duke of Exeter, uncle to Henry V. and deposited in 1427. On opening the lead, the flesh, hair, and toe and hand nails, were as perfect and sound as though he had not been dead six hours.

A Surgeon in the neighbourhood made an incision on the breast, and declares the flesh cut as firm as in a living subject, and there was even an appearance of blood; multitudes of people were present and saw the same. At this time the corpse was not in the least noisome, but being exposed to the air, it presently became putrid and offensive. The workmen coming early on Friday morning, resolved to make prize of the lead, and therefore cut out the corpse, tumbled it into a hole near at hand, and threw the dirt on it. The lead was conveyed directly to the plasters, and then sold for twenty two shillings. Thus, in Shakespear's phrase, was a great man knocked about the sconce, with a dirty shovel.

Feb. 27. It is said that a message will soon be sent from a Great Personage to both houses, recommending to their consideration the present most exorbitant prices of provisions, and the distresses of the poor.

Mr. Smith, a merchant of the first rate in the city of London, received advice yesterday about one o'clock, by a special messenger from Amsterdam, that the preliminary articles of peace between the Porte and the Empress of Russia had been happily adjusted; and that the belligerent powers had agreed to open a congress immediately, to conclude this weighty negotiation; and that the town of Jaffa had been fixed upon by all the high contracting parties as the most convenient for the holding of this congress.

Yesterday there was a very full house of Peers, and all the Judges attended on the second reading of the bill for regulating the future marriages of the Royal Family.

The Lords of the Treasury have constituted John Temple, Esq; formerly surveyor general of the Northern district of America, and one of the late commissioners of the customs in America, surveyor general of the customs in this kingdom, at the established salary of 400l. per annum, to be resident in London, and a daily attendant on the board of customs. By this appointment it is designed, that the present offices of surveyor general for the different coasts shall cease on the demise of the incumbents; and it is said that three other gentlemen will be appointed, who together with Mr. Temple, are to execute the business of this new constitution.

A meeting of the convocation was lately advised by a certain Prelate, but prudently rejected, by the Minister, who observed, that there was no knowing where religious disputes might terminate, and that the compilers of the liturgy were at least as remarkable for their wisdom and piety as any of the modern reformers.

There is now in Cheshire goal a man, aged near 80, which is to be tried next assizes at Stafford, for a murder committed by him upwards of 20 years ago, at Meir, near Newcastle under line, by shooting through a window, one Walff, a Hailiff, who was going to serve him with a writ; upon which the murderer absconded, and could never be discovered till, by mere accident, a few days ago.

March, 3. Orders are sent over to Ireland, to make a draught of twenty men from every regiment in that kingdom, which are to march with all expedition for Kinsale, there to embark for Quebec.

"The Danish Ambassador to the British court, Baron de Dieden, who had leave of absence, is ordered immediately to repair to London. The two clergymen belonging to the garrison of Helsingør and Cronenburg have received orders from the King, to preach by turns before the Queen, the one in German, the other in the Danish language."

A report prevailed yesterday, that an attempt had been made on the life of the Prince of Orange, by shooting at him as he was riding in his garden on horse back at his seat of Harlembad.

The bank has refused to discount the Jew draughts from Holland. The plausible reason given for this very alarming circumstance is, that the directors are apprehensive too much gold might, through this channel, be drawn out of the kingdom. The real reason is of quite a different nature; but we do not choose to make it public.

On Sunday last a most affecting sermon, upon the peculiar situation of the Royal Family, was preached at Queen-street Chapel, from the following words:—"Father, if thou be willing, remove this cup from me; nevertheless, not my will, but thine be done." The preacher took occasion to introduce the affliction of the Royal Family in so pathetic a strain as to draw tears from the whole audience. The subject was handled in a masterly manner, and a most respectful character was delineated of her late Royal Highness the Princess Dowager of Wales, equally free from ostentation and flattery.

Yesterday a grant passed the seal unto Thomas Wright and Charles Byrne, gun makers, for their invention of guns and fire arms on a new construction, being capable of carrying their shot much quicker, and preventing the disagreeable and dangerous effects of recoiling.

March 4. The public may depend upon it, that the Queen of Denmark is closer confined than ever. The King is sometimes entirely beside himself; and if not hindered by a guard of six men, who constantly wait upon him, would frequently commit extravagancies. He does what his counsell bid him; who when the last advices came away, only debated, whether Suenfee, Stautz, and Brand, all of whom were with the King of Denmark in England, should be publicly or privately executed.

Part of a Letter written by an Officer who lately served in Bengal.

For the sake of my country, and the honour of the English name, I sincerely wish that a thick veil could be drawn over the methods of acquiring fortunes in India for some years past, (especially the last seven years) as well as over the monstrous and unconstitutional powers, with which our nabobs in that country have been premitted to invest themselves.

During the period I have just hinted at, our Eastern nabobs possessed the power of doing ill in a greater degree than perhaps was ever known in the annals of time; and let Bengal now declare how they have used it?

In the year 1765, when the Prince and Father of Nabobs, whose nod, like that which shakes Olympus, could destroy the inhabitants of the earth, shook his awful brow, and said, "Let there be a monopoly of the necessities of life; for the benefit of my family and friends," he signed the death-warrant for two millions of his fellow creatures! And when he said, "Let the coin be adulterated," he issued an order for depopulating three thousand villages!

I speak from experience and ocular demonstration. I have known Bengal for many years. I have travelled over that country, when it was in reality the garden of the world; when the villages were large, populous, and flourishing; when the extensive plains were covered with lowing herds and laughing husbandmen; and when the manufacturers sung unmolested under every shady tree.

I have since travelled over that country, when the villages were become the inhabitations of foxes; when the once fertile plains were become immeasurable wastes, inhabited only by the growling tyger and the howling jackal; and when the few half-starved manufacturers, whom rapine and avarice had left, beheld me with jealousy and fear.

This picture is too horrid for reflection—yet, alas, it is nevertheless true!

Thursday March 5. The house of Commons of Ireland made a farther progress in the bill for preventing tumultuous risings in the Counties of Down and Antrim.

Saturday, March 7. The house in a committee (the Hon. Mr. Sheffington in the chair) proceeded in, and went through the heads of a bill, for preventing tumultuous risings in the counties of Antrim and Down; to which were added by an amendment, the counties of Armagh and Londonderry. The report was ordered to be made on Monday, and then the house adjourned.

March 7. A private letter from Copenhagen says, that the opinion of the British Judges, as handed about there, was to the following effect: "That every Queen, by virtue of her marriage, was no less a natural born subject than a native of the Kingdom; and that the King of Great Britain would not meddle with the laws of Denmark, which he considered as founded in equity; nor would he interfere in the present troubles, beyond what the Dignity of his Crown, inseparable from the true interests of his people, and built both upon truth, moderation and Justice, should prompt him to."

The King of Prussia has sent a letter to our Sovereign, as Elector of Hanover, which occasioned an Express to be sent off late on Sunday night to that Electorate.

We are assured, by the best authority, that an Express is actually arrived over land from the East Indies, which brings, news of the very worst kind.

We can assure the public that L. North in his usual manly manner has made up matters with the Young Cub, by giving to his Ally, Mr. O'Brien, the place of collector at Dominico, worth only 200L per annum, upon the change of London. The Cub is to return, in a few days to his Kennel, in the Admiralty.

Whitbhal, March 14. The King has appointed Molineux Shulham, Esq; to be his Governor and commander in chief in and over the Island of Newfoundland, and all the coast of Labrador, from the entrance of Hudson's Straights to the river of St. John.

March 18. The friends of the constitution grow hourly more alarmed at the Royal marriage bill, because it is now discovered to be a declaratory bill, specifying that the Crown is not only to have, but that it always had, a power of controlling the choice of our Princes, and that, consequently, whatever unions are formed without the King's consent are absolute nullities.

Many gentlemen are greatly mortified when they recollect the distinction with which the patron Saints of Scotland and Wales are treated, that poor St. Patrick was not yesterday judged worthy of any compliment at court; though more ministerial dependents are maintained by his sons than by the united offsprings of Andrew and David, greatly as the latter are honoured with a preference at St. James's.

Extract of a Letter from Gloucester, March 16.

"Friday morning came on before Mr. Justice Nares, the trial of William Morgan, for the murder of the late Miss Jones, of Nafs. The trial between four and five hours, when the Jury, out retiring from the bar, and without any hesitation, found the prisoner guilty. Sentence of death, and dissection, was immediately pronounced upon him, and this day appointed for his execution. The numerous assembly before which he stood, the horrid circumstances of the crime with which he was charged, the awful sentence pronounced upon him, and the very pathetic and affecting exhortation with which the learned Judge accompanied the sentence, were not productive of any emotion in the prisoner. As he was charged with the most heinous offence, so he seemed to be hardened in the utmost degree.

March 21. The Friendship, Cowan, from Maryland to Clyde, is stranded near Wexford in Ireland.

Extract of a Letter from Cowes, March 18.

"The Carolina, McWilliams, from North-Carolina, that run ashore on the Shingles, the 9th instant, was got off last night, and brought into this harbour; the cargo must be all landed, the ship having received much damage."

March 23. The government, we hear, have it in contemplation to grant a bounty of five pounds a pipe upon all wigs imported from America, which (as our dominions beyond the Atlantic are in many places admirably calculated for the purpose) it is hoped will be speedily claimed, to the mortification of the grateful Portuguese, who seem to have forgotten how many times the friendship of Great-Britain, has rescued them from destruction.

The last advices from Hanover mention, that the troops of that Electorate had been augmented to their full complement of men, pursuant to his Majesty's orders, and that they at present consist of 20,000 Regulars, exclusive of nine regiments of Militia, and four more in different Garrisons.

Wednesday night at a meeting of the society of Arts, Manufactures and Commerce, at their house in the Strand, it was agreed to give a premium of thirty guineas, as an encouragement to the planter of the greatest quantities of Annatto and Zebra wood in any of the British Colonies. Mr. Bowen at the same time appeared before the Society, and gave a very flattering account of the great use that might be made of Oil of Earth nuts, a vegetable very common in America; on which it was agreed, that one ton of the said nuts should be sent for, in order to make experiments with, and that a quantity of the oil should also be imported for the use of the Society.

The importation of the above Oil, it is universally supposed, will considerably lower the present price of that useful commodity.

Extract of a Letter from Banbridge, dated March 7.

"There is a great disturbance here with the people who call themselves Hearts of Steel.—Tenants will pay no rent; five hundred of them appear together in the night, and destroy all a man's substance at once. Last night they went to Mr. Johnson's in Guildford, and have banished him, destroyed all his household furniture, burned his hay and oats, and have shot the Presbyterian Minister in his house quite dead; Mr. Johnson escaped with great difficulty by swimming over a river."

Part of a Letter from Newry, dated the 8th Instant.

"Last Friday morning Richard Johnson, of Guildford, Esq; was attacked by a very numerous body of Steelmen, at his house at Guildford, for having committed two or three of their men to gaol; for their lawless assemblies, and the damages they had done; Mr. Johnson and his servants made a defence, and after many shots being fired, and some killed on both sides, Mr. Johnson's ammunition being all expended, he escaped by the back of the house, and was obliged to swim across a river, and so got to this town. The mischief done at Guildford is almost incredible.

"Yesterday we received the five companies of soldiers, and one company was sent off at four o'clock in the afternoon along with Mr. Johnson; and when they arrived at Loughbrickland (within two miles of Guildford) hearing that the number of Steelmen were increased to more than double, they did not go farther, and immediately sent an express to town for the remainder of the soldiers; and this morning at two o'clock the drum beat, and at four three companies of soldiers marched off to join the rest at Loughbrickland; we every moment expect some news from them, and if any thing extraordinary happens, shall acquaint you of the particulars." Public Gazetteer.

March 25. The following passage is taken from the speech made by the Hon. Judge Nares, when he passed sentence on William Morgan, at Gloucester Assize, for the cruel murder of Miss Jones. "The person whom you have murdered, and the manner in which the horrid deed hath been committed, are such aggravations of the crime, that history hath not yet furnished us, and, I hope to God, never will again, with a similar instance of such amazing cruelty, such savage barbarity. It was no open or secret enemy, no sudden aggravating provocation, that could excite you to the commission of it; it was your friend and your neighbour, and who was, almost at that very instant, breathing out from her benevolent heart the kindest wishes for your safety and preservation. In short, you have been that unheard of Russian, that hath murdered such youth and beauty, such innocence and virtue, as every other part of the human species would have flown to the protection of, and died to have preserved."

It is now whispered that the connection between a certain amiable Prince and a much celebrated woman of fashion will finally terminate on his return to these Kingdoms.

Extract of a letter from Caithness, in Scotland, March 4.

"A very melancholy accident has happened in this country: As a great company, to the number of sixty six men, were attending a funeral to a church yard on the other side of Loch Shein, in the shire of Sunderland, which was then frozen over, they agreed to pass over on the ice, which unluckily gave way, and they all perished."

March 28. A Clause is inserted in the Bill for the more effectual Proceeding against Persons standing mute on their Arraignment for Felony or Piracy, for extending the Provisions therein, to his Majesty's Colonies and Plantations in America.

The Hearts of Steel in the North of Ireland, are in a State of open Rebellion; they have been for some Time training under discarded Serjeants and broken Soldiers; their Numbers are formidable, and they are well armed; but General Gisborne has marched against them with a considerable Body of the King's Troops.

A Letter from Dublin, March 7, says, "The uncommonly atrocious Actions of the Rioters in the North of Ireland obliged the House of Commons to commit, report, and pass a Bill against the Rioters in one Day; an Instance of Dispatch to which there is no Precedent."

Feb. 25. Her Royal Highness the Princess Dowager of Wales made a present to her Majesty of diamonds and jewels she wore at his Majesty's coronation, and to his Majesty she gave the large diamond ring, which her Royal Consort, her father used to wear.

Her Royal Highness also presented the Prince of Brunswick with a casket of jewels, and her own and the late Prince of Wales's picture in miniature, set round with diamonds and rubies.

A letter from Leghorn mentions, that the Senate of Venice have lately published some decrees against the Clergy, which had given great umbrage to the Holy See; and that the Pope's Nuncio at Venice had been recalled.

We hear from Stockholm, that the majority of the Senate are against meddling with the affair of their Northern neighbours; but that the Prussia party is of another mind.

The Dutch, it is reported, are making preparations, which seem to indicate an intention of taking an active part in continental affairs, if a general rupture (as is expected) should be the consequence of some Northern commotions.

Some Letters from Lisbon mention, that since the cultivation of the vines has been talked of with success in the American Colonies, the Portuguese are become more than ordinary civil to the English Merchants and Traders to that port.

March 5. A petition has been presented to the board of trade by Mr. St. Pierre, praying assistance in the establishment of his colony at New Bordeaux, in South-Carolina, for the culture of vines, silk, indigo, and fruit trees, such as almond, olive, figs, &c.

Bristol, Feb. 13. Several gentlemen of this city have entered into a subscription to raise a fund to purchase meat, in order to reduce the present most exorbitant price of that article, and finally to check the infamous practice of combining means of raising both bread and meat in this city, to the great distress of the inhabitants; 1000L are already subscribed for the above purpose, and it is expected that abundantly more will be added thereto in a few days. The plan on which the committee intend to proceed, is, to buy weekly a number of live cattle, at the best hand, and sell the meat to the poor at a reasonable price, so that it is thought prime pieces will be sold for three pence or three pence half-penny, and inferior as low as three halfpence or two-pence per pound. We hear also, that after they have brought the meat to a proper standard, they intend to proceed to reduce the other articles of provisions, which are got up beyond the common market price, and particularly bread. Their design is not to hurt the fair trader, but to bring the staple commodities of life to a reasonable price.

The AUTHOR

OF THE

COMPLETE SURVEYOR,

TO THE

PUBLIC IN GENERAL,

AND TO THE

SUBSCRIBERS IN PARTICULAR.

MY LORDS AND GENTLEMEN,

PERMIT me to return you my most sincere thanks, for the honour you have done me, in promoting and encouraging my intended publication on Surveying; but, give me leave at the same time to inform you, that, though I was in great hopes of being able to have sent it to the press before this time; yet on enquiring into the number of Subscribers in the country, I find that notwithstanding I have received upwards of two hundred myself, besides what have been received by others, the number in the whole falls considerably short of my expectation.

As this work will be larger, and the expense of printing it considerably greater than would be defrayed by the present number of subscribers, I have been advised to delay the printing of it a little longer than I intended, fearing I might perhaps be a loser by proceeding too hastily.

The present deficiency in the number of subscribers, I look upon, as owing rather to my being unknown, than to the want of a spirit of encouragement in the public; but, as my Manuscript Copy has met with the approbation of some of the best Judges of the master in America, viz. the Earl of Stirling, Mr. Colver, Mr. Wilsonhouse, and Mr. Lukens, I hope all objections arising from my name not being yet sufficiently known, may be hereafter laid aside, and that the public will be pleased speedily to encourage a work of so useful a nature, and enable me to lay it before them with expedition.

His Excellency William Franklin, Esq; Governor of New-Jersey, has been pleased to favour me with a manuscript Essay on the Variation of the Needles, written by the late Mr. Lewis Evans, which will also be inserted in this work (by his Excellency's permission) a matter which the public have long wished for, and which, I hope, will be an additional inducement for many Gentlemen in America, to encourage this publication, particularly those who had the pleasure of being acquainted with that ingenious Gentleman when living.

In the mean time, I beg leave to offer my services in surveying, laying out, or dividing tracts of land; establishing the boundaries of provinces, or any other important lines, either on the common, or on astronomical principles.

Those Gentlemen who will be pleased to favour me with their commands in this way, in any part of North-America, may depend on having their work performed with accuracy, and the favour gratefully acknowledged by

Their obliged and most obedient humble servant,

S. G A L E.

He is to be heard of by applying to Alexander Colden, Esq; Surveyor General of New-York.

RECOMMENDATIONS of the above WORK.

I Have perused several parts of Mr. Gale's Manuscript Copy, of the work he proposes to publish by Subscription on the subject of Surveying, and do believe, it will be a very useful work to most of the Surveyors in North-America, as well as others who are desirous of making themselves acquainted with both the theory and practical part of that art.

S. T. R. L. I. N. G.

New-York, February 26th, 1772.

I Have perused such parts of Mr. Gale's Manuscript Copy, as relates to practical Surveying in America (which has been omitted in the former authors) and find it to be well handled, and worthy of the encouragement of the public.

ALEXANDER COLDEN,

Surveyor-General, of the Colony of New-York.

HAVING perused all the most material parts of Mr. Gale's Manuscript Copy of the Complete Surveyor, I beg leave to recommend it as a work, in my opinion, well deserving the encouragement of the public.

DAVID BITTENHOUSE.

Philadelphia, March 9th, 1772.

Philadelphia, March 12th, 1772.

I Have perused several parts of Samuel Gale's Manuscript Copy of the Complete Surveyor, and am fully convinced, that the rules therein laid down in practical surveying, and correctly calculating the areas of such surveys when made, especially that part relating to surveying our rough lands in America, may be of great advantage to those concerned in surveying, as well as others; and therefore think it deserves public encouragement.

JOHN LUKENS,

Surveyor-General of Pennsylvania.

SUBSCRIPTIONS are taken in by Messrs. Hall and Sellers, and Mr. John Dunlap, in Market-Street, Messrs. Bradfords, at the London Coffee-House, and Mr. R. Bell, at the late Union Library, Philadelphia; Mr. Matthias Slough, Lancaster; Mr. James Pollock, Carlisle; George Wood, Esqr. Bedford; Mr. Joseph Pennock, Esqr. Marlborough, Chester county; Mr. Isaac Collins, Burlington; Mr. Zachariah Roffe, Mount-Holly; Mr. Hugh Gaine, Mr. John Holt, Messrs. Noel and Hazard, and Mr. James Rivington, New-York; Mr. Alexander McMechan, Baltimore; Mr. Richard Draper, Boston; Mr. Robert Wells, Charlestown, South-Carolina; Mr. Alexander Phœnix, Savannah, in Georgia; and by all the Booksellers and Printers in America.

N. B. The condition of the above work is 21. 6d. Pennsylvania currency on subscribing, and 25. 6d. on the delivery of the book, or otherwise 20s. 6d. Pennsylvania currency on the delivery of the book, and nothing on subscribing.
